Red Army Officers Delayed

American Military Police Hold Bus For 75 Minutes

BERLIN (AP)—American military policemen held up a busload of Soviet army officers for 75 minutes Sunday at the West Berlin border in a tense test of screening.

Clearance for the bus was given only after the Russians gave assurances that the Soviet commandant and his top political adviser, who are taboo in the U.S. sector, were not aboard.

Col. Andrei Solov'yev, the Soviet commandant, and his chief aide, Lt. Col. Georgi Alekseev, are banned in retaliation for allowing the East Germans to harass U.S. officials crossing into East Berlin.

Halting of the bus, carrying 18 officers, marked the third time in a week that Soviet military personnel have run into U.S. roadblocks.

The bus remained in West Berlin less than an hour and then went back east with no indication of the purpose of the trip.

The unusually large number of officers aboard led to speculation the Russians might have been seeking only to confuse or embarrass the Americans at Checkpoint Charlie on Friedrichstrasse.

A U.S. combat company stationed in Berlin returned across the East German autobahn without hindrance after several days of training in West Germany.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt contended in a radio broadcast that the wall dividing Berlin "is beginning to work against those who built it" because of the adverse impression it makes on foreign visitors.

Will Begin Dominican Restoration

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The chief coordinator of the Alliance for Progress program says it will begin work in the Dominican Republic as soon as possible to help restore economic stability and thus aid this nation's steps toward democracy.

Teodoro Moscoso, Latin American director for the U.S. agency for international development, arrived here Sunday with a staff of technicians.

The urgency of his mission was underlined by his arrival only four days after diplomatic relations between Washington and Santo Domingo were resumed following the lifting of sanctions imposed on the defunct Trujillo dictatorship last year by the Organization of American States.

Moscoso met briefly with President Joaquin Balaguer and the ruling State Council, which is grappling with trade deficits and unemployment estimated as high as 600,000.

"The mission's purpose," Moscoso told a news conference, "is to collaborate in a secure alliance of effort to see that the Dominican Republic fulfills its democratic destiny as an outstanding ally of free nations of the hemisphere."

New evidence of the political difficulties facing the government came Sunday night when three army officers threatened to resign unless the armed forces chief, Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria, steps out. Two second lieutenants and a captain accused him of continuing "the autocratic regime" of the assassinated dictator, Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo.

Fear Seamen Lost In English Channel

DOVER, England (AP)—Twenty-five seamen were feared lost in the sinking of the Yugoslav freighter Sabac after a midnight collision in the fog-shrouded English Channel.

Eight survivors and 10 bodies were recovered. The other 15 men aboard the 2,811-ton Sabac were believed dead. The ship and the 6,223-ton British steamer Dorington Court collided and the Sabac, cut in two, sank in six minutes.

Seamen said the missing men had almost no chance of survival after so many hours in the icy water with its swift currents.

Police Begin 'Blue Laws' Enforcement

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Police started enforcing Missouri's 136-year-old "blue laws" in the St. Louis and Kansas City areas Sunday.

Court action became the next step as 74 employees in two discount stores of the GEM chain were arrested in St. Louis County for selling non-essential items.

All were released on $500 appearance bonds supplied through GEM (Government Employees Mart).

GEM is seeking a federal restraining order against closing its stores, contending the Sunday closing laws don't apply to it because it sells only to members.

Atty. Gen. Thomas F. Eagleton said he would start legal action today or Tuesday to stop GEM from doing business in Missouri.

In Kansas City, 20 police teams checked about 200 stores in that city's first enforcement move. No arrests were made, but violators will be warned and continued violations will bring arrests, Police Chief C. M. Kelley said.

A GEM store, other discount houses and 19 outlets of a food chain did business as usual, while other large Kansas City supermarkets and drug stores refused to sell non-essential goods.

Much uncertainty existed about what was essential.

Eagleton said he is preparing a list of non-essential items and has invited every county prosecutor in the state to meet with him Friday to go over the list.

Meet With JFK

Bipartisan Leaders Briefed On Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy canvassed world trouble spots with congressional leaders of both parties at a two-hour White House conference today.

Republicans and Democrats who came out of a breakfast meeting held in the Cabinet room said there was a full discussion of international affairs.

The President turned over to Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, the task of bringing the leaders up to date on world developments in their field.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of all Republican senators, said the briefing touched on all of the trouble spots in the world.

He said there was no discussion of domestic issues, except for mention of the President's intention to ask for broad authority to negotiate tariffs.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate GOP leader, said that there was only broad discussion of international problems and very little questioning from the Congress members. Kennedy has scheduled a break-

Underground Strike Hits In Algeria

Paralyze Algiers, Oran Today In Show of Strength

ALGIERS (AP)—A strike called by the secret rightist underground army paralyzed Algiers and Oran for two hours today in a show of strength by Europeans fighting Algerian independence.

Crowds streamed into the streets of Algeria's two largest cities. Authorities blocked off streets in downtown Algiers as a precaution against violence, but the demonstrators rallied elsewhere.

Heavy security forces deployed in both cities and helicopters flew overhead.

Business houses closed, either to take part in the strike or to prevent looting or damage in street rioting.

The crowds began to break up at noon, the hour the underground set for ending the two-hour strike. Shops reopened and traffic returned to normal.

The Secret Army pegged the call for the strike to support a protest by hospital personnel who object to increased police control over their activities. French officials have charged some hospital staffs with being accomplices of the underground. A number of right-wing extremists taken to hospitals for treatment after being arrested have escaped.

Rebel government leaders met in neighboring Morocco for talks on the prospects for making peace with French President Charles de Gaulle.

Members of the exile government indicated they have gone as far as they will toward a compromise. One leader told newsmen: "Our aims have not changed. We are not waiting for a messenger from France, we are waiting for concrete moves."

Bolster Dollar Stability

Agree On Ten Power Money Pool

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 10-power agreement to bolster the stability of the dollar and other moneys of non-Communist nations through a $6-billion currency pool was announced today by the International Monetary Fund.

Subject to ratification by Congress and the other parliaments, the pool will give the IMF a huge reserve from which any of the 10 nations may draw to meet temporary and unusual drains on their gold and foreign exchange reserves.

The United States was the foremost sponsor of the plan and would be a major beneficiary if the dollar should again come under such speculative attack as took place in 1960.

The agreement calls on the 10 participating nations to pledge to the IMF—but not to put up in cash until and unless some of the funds are needed—these amounts in dollars:

United States, two billion; Britain, one billion; Germany one billion; France, 550 million; Italy, 550 million; Japan, 250 million; Canada, 200 million; Netherlands, 200 million; Belgium, 150 million; Sweden, 100 million.

The agreement represents the third and next to the last step in a plan to provide, through the IMF, international borrowing arrangements which—in IMF's words—"should make it possible to mobilize quickly large additional resources in defense of the international monetary system."

The U.S. Treasury, in a simultaneous announcement, said: "The borrowing arrangement could be of great assistance to the United States, as well as to any of the other participating countries, in meeting temporary balance-of-payment difficulties."

The final step will come when at least seven of the countries, whose pledges total not less than $5.5 billion, notify the IMF of their adherence to the pact. The supplemental fund then will be ready for use.

If one of the countries finds itself in payment difficulties which cannot be handled through the usual IMF procedures, the fund will borrow the needed currencies from members of the new pool. IMF then would re-lend the money to the country in trouble.

The terms and conditions announced today contain no provision for a veto by any single country on the use of its currency.

Brookshire Conviction Is Upheld

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The Missouri Supreme Court today upheld the manslaughter conviction and three-year prison sentence against W. A. Brookshire of Ashland for the slaying of his farmhand, Ralph Collings.

Collings was killed May 25, 1959, in Brookshire's farm home.

Brookshire said it was in self defense. Seven neighbors testified that Brookshire, a former school superintendent and state senator, had a poor reputation for the truth.

Brookshire is involved in a number of court actions, including an appeal to the Supreme Court from his conviction in Cooper County Circuit Court last June for the slaying of another farmhand, Roderick Neiss of Lawrence, Kan. In that case he was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

The Supreme Court also has before it a disbarment proceeding in which the aging lawyer-stockman might lose his right to practice law.

The all-democratic meeting Tuesday is likely to be devoted to the more controversial items which the administration hopes to develop as major political issues in this congressional election year.

These include the bitterly disputed health care program financed under the Social Security System, and a variety of education measures left over from the 1961 legislative wars.

Democratic congressional leaders have made it clear they expect a big furor over the reciprocal trade bill. They predict a satisfactory measure will be passed.

They are scratching their heads over what they expect to be the biggest problems of the 1962 session—the health care bill and the grade and high school grant measure.

Youth Killed In Tractor Accident

MARTHASVILLE, Mo. (AP)—Michael Bocklage, 14, was killed Sunday when a tractor overturned and pinned him as he was pulling a friend on a sled on snow-covered Highway 94 near Marthasville. The other youth, Ronald Hellebush, 13, suffered face cuts and a possible neck injury.

State troopers said Bocklage was driving a zig-zag pattern when the tractor skidded and plunged off the road.

Both boys lived at Marthasville, a small community about 10 miles west of St. Louis.

Sukarno Escapes Explosion

Bomb Kills 3, Injures 25; In Big Crowd

MAKASSAR, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno escaped unharmful from a bomb explosion Sunday night while winding up a four-day barnstorming tour to whip up support in the Celebes for his plans to seize West New Guinea from the Dutch.

The bomb killed three persons and injured 25 others in a crowd watching the president arrive for a speech. It exploded a few hundred yards behind his motorcade. Visibly shaken, he addressed a student rally shortly afterward.

This morning he inspected a military base outside this South Celebes city.

There were no indications of any arrests but military precautions and security were strengthened in Makassar, the probable jumping-off point for any invasion of Dutch New Guinea.

Until recently, the Makassar area also was a center of rebels opposing Sukarno's government.

The president attacked Dutch Foreign Minister J. M. A. H. Luns for his statement in a magazine interview recently that West New Guinea's Papuan population should not come under Indonesian domination because they are racially different from the Indonesians.

A. B. Chance Company In Production

CENTRALIA, Mo. (AP)—The A. B. Chance Co. started driving toward full-scale production today following settlement of a nine-week strike by the International Union of Electrical Workers.

Union members voted 173 to 31 Saturday to accept a 7-cent-an-hour wage increase offered by the company. The offer, made Dec. 1, had been rejected once by the union.

About 340 workers walked out Nov. 1. The plant reopened Dec. 18 and some of the strikers returned to work.

Eugene Millster, Local 821 president, said Saturday: "The union is like a chain, with each member as a link. We had 90 weak links in a chain of 340."

The union issued a statement saying: "The membership feels they were beaten by the scab workers, not by the company."

Jet Liner Lands In Red Field

Claim Soviet Jets Forced Plane Down

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—A Belgian Sabena jet airliner, carrying 27 persons from Tehran to Istanbul, landed at a Soviet airfield today after radioing "We are being pursued by Russian planes."

Sabena authorities in Istanbul and in Brussels, the line's headquarters, said the plane was forced by Soviet jets to put down at the city of Yerevan, near the Soviet-Turkish frontier.

However, the line's manager in Tehran, Walter Devros, said a radio compass had failed and the pilot, Cmdr. Freddy Moureau, requested permission to make the landing.

By Devros' account, the Soviet craft merely escorted the liner to Yerevan. He said plans are for it to proceed to Istanbul, 850 miles west of Yerevan, as soon as repairs are completed.

The plane carried 19 passengers and eight crew members. Devros said all were reported safe.

Among the passengers was one American, identified only as a Mr. Howen, flying to Europe from the Far East.

Sabena authorities in Brussels said the Russians had buzzed the airliner and that at least two fighters were involved.

While Devros insisted that the plane landed voluntarily, other airport sources at Tehran, Iran's capital, said they had heard the pilot radioing distress calls.

They reported he radioed Ankara Airport that he was being followed by four Soviet MIGs and, repeating that message three times, then said the MIG's had ordered him to follow them down.

"They are armed and we are not," the pilot was quoted as saying.

Call Washington Meeting Useful and Satisfactory

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says he and Gen. Lucius D. Clay are in full agreement on how to handle effectively any possible future crisis in Berlin.

The President's statement was issued Sunday after he and Clay, who is Kennedy's personal representative in West Berlin, had talked for an hour at the White House.

Clay came to Washington for talks with the President and Secretary of State Dean Rusk amid reports he believed the U.S. commander in West Berlin, Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, should have greater authority to handle unexpected emergencies.

Clay met with Rusk Saturday. Both men denied any policy differences between them over Berlin.

The statement read to reporters by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger after Sunday's Kennedy-Clay meeting apparently sought to dispel any idea of a deep rift within the administration over the handling of any future emergencies in Berlin.

The statement by the chief executive said: "General Clay and I have had a most useful and satisfactory review of the current situation in Berlin and Germany. I have been very glad to get his report of the continuing staunchness of the people of West Berlin and we have talked at length about the ways and means of sustaining and strengthening the life of their great city in the future as in the past."

"We have also reviewed the general problem of effective handling of possible crisis situations and we have reached full agreement on the policy to be followed during these months."

Mrs. Edwards Council President

New Garden Club Officers Installed for Eight Clubs

Mrs. Orval Sutter, Overland, Mo., president of the Missouri Federation of Garden Clubs, installed Mrs. M. L. Edwards, as president of the Council of the Sedalia Garden Club, other officers of the Council and the presidents of the eight garden clubs, Friday, Jan. 5, at the installation luncheon held at the Masonic Temple. She also was the speaker and gave a very clever and appropriate talk.

A garden club, Mrs. Sutter said, is like a flower arrangement, it has the basic structure, which is the officers, and the elements, which are the members. The basic structure should be simple in form, subdued, and she held up a very plain vase of gray color. All activities are molded together by good structure and bylaws, and she stressed that the bylaws should be kept simple.

Placed on a base, she said, which represents the council, is a support which helps build your arrangement, and a second base, which is the State and National Federations, giving it more support and a solid foundation.

The plant material which you use in your arrangement represents the members of your organization, Mrs. Sutter said as she held up a red gladioli. "This is a good member, bright and alert," and touching the buds, added, "it keeps on and on."

Then she held up a red rose which she said was colorful, but you have to handle with care because it has thorns. There are members like that, but still they do add color to a club, they do many things that are outstanding.

She held up various evergreen branches, one that was full and shapely, which she said was a good member that attended all meetings; the next was rather spreading which she said made good background material. This type of member, she explained, works in the background, but never wants to be in the limelight.

Holding up a shrub branch that was brown, she said, this represents the charter members. They are not as colorful as they used to be, but they are mellowed, and hold us to the earth. A very full branch she called a solid member, and then there was another one that goes off in every direction.

A vine that grew very compact she called the clique, and said: "I dare you to tell where the rumor started in this group."

A very perfect looking branch she termed the good member that not only pays her dues at the first of the year, but is at each meeting. Then she took a rather bare looking branch for the member who pays her dues at the first of the year but never attends meetings. Another branch she said was a member full of ideas but did nothing about them. There were the two types of delegates, too, one the branch that was very full, representing the delegate that attended all the workshops and came back with a good report, the other a bare branch, who came back with nothing at all of value.

A gladioli leaf she described as the sharp member who had to work alone, and then she put together some leaves which she said was the committee that works together. Then there were just two leaves, they were so close all the time you never saw one without the other and you have to always put them together.

She held up a vine which she went on to say represented the member who was always saying, "They did it different when—" and then Mrs. Sutter held up a florist type chrysanthemum of white and yellow which she said was the member who always went in for unusual hats and was more interested in the flowers on her hat than the flowers in her garden. Then the artistic member who is always called on to make the covers for the year books. A lacy fern leaf was the lady who always gave the teas, and then another fern leaf which represented the person who always does the ground work and the cleaning up afterwards of anything that is put on.

Only a few pieces of material make a line arrangement, and then she held up a branch covered with leaves—but a mass arrangement must have a few lines, and the council officers are the lines for the mass arrangement.

She then installed the following officers with Mrs. Edwards: Mrs. Marvin Crutcher, Sr., vice-president; Mrs. Terry Pile, second vice - president; Mrs. Norman Wehmeier, third vice - president; Mrs. J. H. Gwinn, recording secretary; Mrs. Ida Harriman, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. E. Brummet, treasurer; Mrs. Roy Gerster, parliamentarian; Mrs. Paul Read, historian, and Mrs. LeRoy Hodges, secretary.

Garden Club presidents installed were: Mrs. W. O. Wilson, Club 1; Mrs. H. E. Lindstrom, Club 2; Mrs. E. F. Pflughoeft, Club 3; Mrs. J. L. Hiltburg, Club 4; Mrs. William H. Schutt, Club 5; Mrs. Wilson Harbit, Club 6; Mrs. O. A. Potter, Club 7, and Mrs. George Dryden, Club 8.

The program opened with music, with Mrs. Paul Berthouex at the piano. Invocation was by Mrs. Mary Neighbors.

Mrs. Paul Read, who has served the past two years as Council president, presided, and group singing was led by Mrs. H. C. Johnson, with Mrs. Berthouex at the piano.

A very beautiful memorial was given by Mrs. L. H. Hodges for members who had died during the past two years, Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, past president of Club 2, and who had served in many offices in the club and council, including president of the Council; Mrs. F. M. Nicholas, past president of Club 1, and Mrs. F. J. Johnson, Club 6.

Mrs. Read then made a report of the many things accomplished during her very successful two year term. She told of the many things done by the Junior Garden Club and honors received, and of the outstanding events that had been put on by the Garden Clubs.

Mrs. Read was presented a gift of money from the Council of Garden Clubs which she said she would use for some memorial that she would select. Mrs. R. L. Weinrich made the presentation.

Mrs. Read was then invited to join the Past Council Presidents' Club by Mrs. T. H. Yount, president, and was complimented by Mrs. Yount on the wonderful two years of the presidency of the Council she had given.

Mrs. O. H. DeWolf gave the auditors' report.

Guests were introduced by Mrs. P. L. Strole.

As Mrs. Edwards accepted the gavel Oscar DeWolf played a recording, "Through the Years," dedicated to Mrs. Edwards. The words were written by Mrs. DeWolf and their daughter, Mrs. John Merry, sang the tribute.

Mrs. Edwards told briefly of her plans for the year.

The meeting closed with "Now the Day Is Over."

Past Council Presidents committee for the installation luncheon was: Mrs. C. L. Carter, Mrs. T. H. Yount, Mrs. Herbert Seifert, Mrs. J. C. Saunders, Mrs. Oscar DeWolf, Mrs. LeRoy Hodges, Mrs. J. W. Boger, Mrs. Roy Gerster, and Mrs. P. L. Strole.

Pink camellia corsages were given to the new presidents.

Programs were in the form of gardening gloves with green thumbs and on the front was printed: "Gardening with Martha through '63." Decorations were evergreens in wheelbarrows.

WHEN DEBBIE Sue Brown was born five years ago, doctors gave her only three months to live because of a serious birth defect known as spina bifida (open spine). Now she is the nation's 1962 New March of Dimes Poster Child—active, happy and planning to be a cowgirl in her home town of Clarkston, Wash., when she grows up. With her photo on millions of posters and coin collectors during the January March of Dimes campaign, she symbolizes the hope that expert medical care and research skills can bring to the 250,000 American infants born each year with a significant birth defect. Debbie Sue has received considerable National Foundation-March of Dimes financial aid for her medical treatment. In addition to birth defects, the March of Dimes organization is fighting arthritis and polio.

Pawnshop Receipt Reminds Of Dominican Situation

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A pawnshop receipt is to Aquilino Carreon an unhappy symbol of the Dominican economic situation.

A 46-year-old dock worker, Carreon hocked his best pants for $2.50 last June 14 and hasn't got them back yet.

"I'll bet they're gone," he said as he put the receipt back into his work pants. "Or they'll be rotted by the time I get enough money to get them out."

Carreon and his friends sat listlessly at lunch on the shady side of a steel and concrete pier at San Pedro de Macoris. A German freighter rode at anchor in the steaming tropical heat, waiting for the group to resume loading. San Pedro de Macoris is a once-thriving sugar center and port of 22,000. The majority of the work force is unemployed even in the live season, the weeks of the sugar cane harvest.

Carreon shared a tinful of rice and corn stew with Juan de la Cruz, 44.

Miguel Rodriguez, 46, father of five, said "This morning I had a biscuit and some cocoa. My family? I left before they got up. I don't know if they ate. We here on the docks eat maybe twice a day, maybe once. Chapita (a nickname of the late Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo) said he'd teach us Negroes to live without money."

"And he proved it, for 31 years," Carreon commented. "We owe practically everything we're going to make on this job, maybe $60 or $70. I had a work turn in February for four days. Then no job until now. When we don't work we do all we can to eat; borrow, fool people, eat sugar cane and coconuts. That's how I lost my pants."

One trouble at San Pedro is that there are 384 longshoremen and few ships to work on. Planters won't cut cane on the ground the pay is too low. It used to be 45 cents a ton, now it's going to be 80 cents. A good cutter can fell from 1 1/2 to 2 tons daily. About 14,000 Haitians are imported for this work.

Henry Williams, 47, loading supervisor, makes 90 cents an hour for an eight-hour day.

Unresolved Question

The Republican party has won just two of the last 15 congressional elections—its most recent triumph coming narrowly in 1952. Perhaps the political researchers have some solid clues as to how the GOP can do better in dawning 1962 and thereafter.

Drawing together a wide array of studies on American elections, Prof. Charles Sellers Jr. of the University of California lays out some conclusions that should make any politicians hungry for victory prick up their ears.

He starts with the mounting evidence from such voter surveys as those conducted by the University of Michigan—to the effect that most votes are determined not by "short term" forces like issues and candidates but by the long term factor of persistent party identification.

Occasionally, some voters loosen this bond and vote for the opposition, as millions of Democrats did for Dwight Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956. Generally, however, the tie holds.

Sellers goes from that to the well-documented indications that party identification in a high percentage of cases begins with young voters following their parents' lead.

Yet, obviously, if this pattern were to last indefinitely, one party would tend to dominate the U.S. political scene on a near-permanent basis. Election history shows this does not happen, that after periods of varying duration a realignment occurs which puts the opposition party in power for a substantial time.

The Civil War ascendancy of the Republicans, and the Depression triumph of the Democrats are generally regarded as two such instances.

The question is, what brings the big change?

The researchers do not believe that too many voters with established party linkages ever change them permanently. Their conviction is that new voters, breaking from family voting habit, account for the major shift in party allegiances.

Some analysts cite as example the U.S.-born national minorities who came of voting age in the late 1920s and early 1930s and plumped heavily for the Democratic party. They were a big element in the so-called Roosevelt coalition of that era.

What leads the new voters to break?

Here the experts suddenly get fuzzy. They think it has something to do with the established dominant party getting out of tune with the developing times, letting major problems pile up, getting a "bad image." They admit that far too little study has been made on the forces which cause these fundamental political switches.

That leaves the $64 question hanging. But at least it gives the GOP a start. They know they have to alter the bedrock of long term party affiliation, and that the way to do it is to pull in masses of new voters. All they need is to devise the magic lure.

Middle of the Road Prediction

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pretty much the same as last year's middle of the road—is a reasonable prediction of what to expect at home this year from the combined efforts of President Kennedy and Congress.

When Kennedy delivers his State of the Union message Thursday to Congress, which opens Wednesday, no sensations are expected. He has already given previews of his programs and what he will do about them.

The previews not only indicate he isn't going to get fighting mad but that he has even backtracked on at least one of his last year's proposals. That's on federal aid to education.

Last year he asked for a broad aid to education bill, including school construction. The opposition seemed to take the steam out of him on this one. This year he'll pitch for aid to higher education.

He may try harder for a program of medical care for the aged. How much harder remains to be seen. Last year this one ended in the soup.

Last year he failed so completely to make good on his campaign pledge of 1960 to push fast for new civil rights legislation that he didn't even offer any. He'll probably skip it this year, too.

There will be a real contest on his forthcoming request for more freedom in cutting tariffs so this country can deal better with Western Europe's Common Market.

On this one he has the support of some of the country's top Republicans.

There are two good tests of how hard a president is willing to push on any given issue:

1. His willingness to make some members of Congress so angry that, in retaliation, they may gang up on him to slaughter some other program. So far Kennedy's policy has been to keep peace in the family.

2. Appealing directly to the people to put pressure on Congress. Last year Kennedy did little of this. There is no sign he'll do differently this year.

Kennedy has used two other methods: talking directly with key members and having his aides buttonhole them steadily in the Capitol.

If some of the issues mentioned above don't get through this year—medical care, aid to education, civil rights—they'll be issues in the 1962 congressional elections.

How failure to pass them could help Kennedy is hard to see. The Republicans can argue that the Democrats, who have huge majorities in both houses of Congress, must take responsibility for the failures.

The death of Speaker Sam Rayburn, who was a kind of patriarch in the House, will probably be a loss to Kennedy in some ways. But Rayburn's successor, John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, less conservative than the old Texan, may be on Kennedy's side on more issues than Rayburn was.

Gossiping Is a Practice Not Always Malicious

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

A playmate of our younger girl is in and out of our house all the time. She was here recently when my husband and I had words over the way he was storing some window screens in the cellar. She must have gone home and gossiped about us because the story has come back to our older girl as a rumor that her father and I are considering divorce.

I want to tell this little scandal-maker that she's unwelcome now in our home but am afraid of making her more spiteful.

ANSWER: Are you really sure that "Go away and don't come back" is what you want to say to her?

Have you never gossiped? Most of us do, you know. We come upon a surprising bit of information about somebody else and immediately want to share it with another person.

At a dinner party, for instance, we will suddenly recognize intense sexual attraction in our married host's too-casual treatment of a woman guest and can't wait to get home to tell our husband what we've seen.

Do we gossip out of spite? Or do we tell him what we've seen out of confusion—out of our encounter with a new and unsuspected part of our host's personality that doesn't fit into the picture we have made of it?

Isn't our gossiping, in fact, an appeal for our husband's help in adjusting a disturbing bit of information about our host to what we have previously believed about him? I think it is.

I think that gossiping people are not always so malicious as we imagine them to be. Usually they are dependent people who, feeling unable to cope with something new and astonishing they have seen or heard about another person, must confide it to us in the hope that we'll fit the odd piece of news into the jig saw puzzle for them.

At least I expect that this was the motivation of this gossiping child you write about.

If I am right, then telling her "Go away and don't come back" wouldn't seem the sensible thing to do. The sensible thing to do would be to fit your quarrel with your husband into the picture for her so that she understands it as unthreatening and acceptable.

You might say, "Joan, when my husband and I fight over where to put the screens in the cellar, it doesn't mean that we hate each other. We like each other very much. As you get to know us better, you will find that what I say is true."

Isn't that what you really want to say? I think that you want to put this little "scandal-maker" right as much as she wants to be put right.

Rockefeller Still Favorite For New York's Governor

By ROBERT E. HENNESSEE
Of Our Washington Bureau

NEW YORK—After the worst year of his life, Nelson Rockefeller appears as determined as ever to become the Republican candidate for President in 1964.

Amid open speculation that he might quit public life as a result of his impending divorce and the loss of his youngest son, Mike, Governor Rockefeller has now announced for reelection this fall.

In doing so, he did not hesitate to say that he might not finish out the full four-year term if he is elected, as is likely.

In California, a promise was extracted from Richard Nixon, who is now running for governor, that he would serve the entire four years. As a result, Nixon is generally considered out of the 1964 presidential picture.

Here in New York, the Kennedy forces, acting through Mayor Robert F. Wagner, are beginning to piece together the Democratic party, which was reduced to shambles by the recent New York City mayoralty fight.

Efforts will certainly be made to persuade Mayor Wagner to run for governor. These efforts, according to Wagner associates, will come to naught. He has a lot of new-found prestige and isn't likely to throw it away in anything so risky as a fight with Rockefeller.

And New York Democrats really have no one else. Congressman William Stratton from upstate wants the gubernatorial nomination and may get it. It is widely suspected, however, that he really is pointing toward 1964 and the Senate post now held by Republican Kenneth Keating, and desires to run for governor this year in order to become better known.

About all the Democrats can hope to do, whoever they finally pit against him, is to hold Rockefeller's majority down as much as possible.

Unless the picture changes a great deal in the next ten months, that majority is apt to be a thump ing one sufficient to kick off a presidential campaign.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

CAN TAXPAYERS DELAY EXTRA DAY THIS YEAR?

Will Missouri taxpayers be able to put off for an extra day this year the filing of state individual income tax returns?

Based upon past experience of the Department of Revenue, legislators will do so if they can.

State Revenue Director M. E. Morris is looking into the matter following announcement by the Internal Revenue Service that federal individual returns will be due April 16 this year since the normal due date of April 15 comes on a Sunday.

But it is not so simple for the state to service in this fashion the thousands upon thousands of taxpayers who customarily hold out until the very last day the return is due. Missouri law says that the state return "shall be filed with the director of revenue on or before the fifteenth day of April." It also says penalties and interest begin April 16. However, the law also gives the revenue director discretion to waive interest and penalties under certain conditions. Whether or not April 15 coming on Sunday is one of these conditions is a question.

CONSERVATION DEPARTMENT PLANNING ITS FIRST HOME

The Department of Conservation is planning the first home of its own since it came into existence in 1936.

The headquarters will be located on a 40-acre site about a mile from Jefferson City.

Cost of the development, estimated at about $700,000, will be paid from a fund which has accumulated through the past 20 years.

Presently, the conservation department is housed in the Farm Bureau building in the capitol city. Before taking these quarters, the department was housed in four downtown buildings.

Final plans for the new building are not drawn yet but Assistant Director Dan Saults says the department has a good idea what it wants to develop. He says the new building will be a one-story structure with two levels in the rear coinciding with the site terrain.

There also are plans to erect in front of the new building a 100-foot fire tower which will serve also as a radio shack, a vantage point for visitors and to fly the flag.

Development of the 40-acre site is of great interest to the conservation department, Saults says. Among other things being considered are two demonstration ponds which will be stocked with various species of fish. It is hoped, too, to plant the rear of the site with various species of trees.

LIVESTOCK DISEASES REPORTS MANDATORY

Procedures for mandatory reporting of the existence of any contagious or communicable disease of livestock by owners, veterinarians and laboratories to the state Department of Agriculture now are being worked out. State Veterinarian L. A. Rosner announces.

Up to now, reporting has been voluntary.

At the same time, Dr. Rosner announces preparations by the state to participate in a federal-state program for the reporting of three costly poultry diseases and also a move toward an all-out effort to eradicate hog cholera.

Reporting of livestock diseases by farmers, veterinarians and laboratories became mandatory three years ago when the 70th General Assembly passed the "Missouri Livestock Disease Control and Eradication Law" and the law was approved by the governor. However, procedures never were developed.

Dr. Rosner says reporting procedures will be spelled out to practicing veterinarians no later than Feb. 20 and that they likely will be a major topic of discussion at an annual veterinarian meeting Feb. 18 and 19 in Kansas City.

Among reasons for implementing mandatory reporting of livestock diseases of the control and eradication law at this time, according to Dr. Rosner, is a nationally developing hog cholera eradication program and others involving swine diseases.

"Reporting is basic to the success of these programs," he explains.

The next legislature likely will be asked for legislation on the hog cholera matter. Meanwhile, co-operative feeder pig groups are voluntarily joining the effort.

In Missouri, another voluntary effort is being carried out by members of the Missouri Poultry Improvement Association in reporting certain poultry diseases. This, too, will become mandatory when procedures are worked out for implementing requirements in the disease and eradication law and will become binding upon all poultry growers. Meanwhile, Missouri is joining with others in a federal-state reporting program system aimed at uncovering reservoirs of infection and providing estimates of losses from pullorum diseases, fowl typhoid and paratyphoid of poultry, three of the most serious diseases.

Here's One Survey's Picture Of High School Smoking

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Acting on the principle that the child is father to the man, a group has studied the smoking habits of 6,810 high school students in Newton, Mass., 10 miles west of Boston.

While the results of this survey will come as no surprise to parents and teachers, they are extremely disturbing to those of us who are convinced that there is a relationship between smoking and cancers of the mouth and lung, as well as between tobacco addiction and certain circulatory conditions such as angina pectoris and coronary thrombosis.

Among the boys, the per cent of smokers rose from 7 per cent in the seventh grade to 46 in the 12th grade. Among girls, from 1 per cent in the seventh grade to an astounding 55 per cent in the 12th grade.

With a single exception, these figures corresponded with those collected elsewhere (London, and Oxfordshire, Eng.; Winnipeg, Can.; Portland, Ore.). This is in the use of cigarettes by young girls. For, whereas pack-a-week-or-more smoking "appears to be almost nonexistent in Britain," it has a frequency of 10 to 25 per cent in North America.

And, what is even more disturbing, high smoking rates are more prevalent in the case of students whose parents are least able to afford the price.

For all this, I don't want to appear as an apologist for these youngsters. But I must say you can hardly blame them when they see their parents, teachers, clergymen, favorite actresses, actors and athletes smoking and endorsing cigarettes.

And when they hear those of us who oppose smoking being attacked as kill-joys, alarmists, fuddy-duddies and the like.

My own recommendation, for what little it's worth, is the start of a grass roots campaign. And the starting place? Your home, classroom, meeting places and wherever you foregather with your youngsters.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

McCormack Urged to State Position

WASHINGTON—With the election of John McCormack as speaker of the House of Representatives—now a certainty—three branches of the federal government will be in the position which President Kennedy wanted to avoid when he promised Protestant clergymen at Houston there would be complete separation of church and state.

A Catholic, JFK, will head the executive branch of government, a Catholic, Mike Mansfield of Montana, will head the Democratic party in the Senate; and another Catholic, John McCormack, will be speaker of the House of Representatives.

What the public doesn't entirely realize, of course, is that President Kennedy has nothing to do with selecting McCormack as speaker, doesn't get along well with him personally, and would much rather have someone else as speaker.

Furthermore, it was the Dixiecrat bloc, led by Rep. Howard Smith of Virginia, which made the deal to support McCormack, even though they were vigorous in opposing a Catholic president.

Despite this, the president is bound to get part of the credit for having members of one church at the head of three powerful branches of government.

Two Pledges

Therefore, he could clarify his position and further fulfill his pledge to Protestant churchmen made at Houston by doing two things:

1. Asking Congressman McCormack to make a public statement, before he assumes the potent office of speaker, that he will carry out the President's pledge of separation of church and state by supporting the Kennedy bill for aid to public schools.

2. By making it clear himself that he, JFK, is still against aid to church schools and colleges and will push the aid to education Bill McCormack was so instrumental in blocking last year.

The latter statement would help allay a lot of doubting Thomases who figure the President is not going to push federal aid for education this year. Their skepticism has been increased by recent press reports that secretary of HEW Abe Ribicoff doesn't figure the school bill has a chance and will promote college aid to both state, private, and church colleges instead.

A statement from Congressman McCormack would be even more important. He has been so close to the hierarchy in Boston that Kennedy has jokingly referred to him as "the archbishop of Boston." It was McCormack who was in constant touch with two key Catholic members of the House rules committee, Jim Delaney of New York and Tip O'Neill of Cambridge, Mass., to get them to block aid to education.

The gaunt, gray, beetle-browed McCormack knows how to crack the whip over the House of Representatives more effectively than any other solon. He is loved by some, feared by others. But whatever their view, McCormack gets what he wants.

So in fairness to the President and the American people who under the Constitution are supposedly "represented" by the House of Representatives, the new speaker should state for the record his determination to carry out the pledge of separation of church and state.

Ike and Right Wingers

Ex-president Eisenhower has decided to speak out more often to keep the leadership of the Republican party from being dominated by the right wing. The general is alarmed at the growing influence of the John Birchites.

Guest Editorial

HOUSTON CHRONICLE: Patriotism Is Fun.—Patriotism, if it is to be real, has to bridge that narrow, difficult gap between our hearts and our minds.

For like all right and real emotions, patriotism is an instinct—a normal, healthy and very easy instinct. Next to our God and our families, we love our country. Our love for it is simple and spontaneous.

But when we come to express it, all sorts of things get in the way. We begin to think, to weigh, to doubt, to bog down in tedious explanations.

There is nothing tedious about patriotism. It's a crisp, satisfying experience, this love of country.

Price of the Prize

Occasionally the headline on a news story tells a good deal more than the bare words. This was such a case:

"Tanganyika, Set Free, Faces Budget Deficit."

This newest of the independent African nations is launched on its way with much hope it will pursue a domestic and world course marked by moderate democracy.

Yet it seems so typical of this age that it should be "born into trouble." It could not enjoy the comfort of a single day with a balanced budget, but was plunged instantly into the financial red.

Nowhere but in freedom can men's souls find the uplift that befits human nature. Today, however, they are learning that gaining and holding liberty compels them increasingly to bear painful, frustrating burdens which mar enjoyment of their prize.

Big (Show) Business

New York's Empire State building, already justly famed as the world's tallest, may go down in history high on the list of those most frequently bought and sold. It seems to exert a sharp attraction for many kinds of enterprises.

Details of earlier transactions have faded, but they could hardly match those which accompanied a recent deal wherein the building was sold twice in a day.

Almost a hundred separate processes were involved. The contract ran to 400 pages. Roughly a hundred lawyers, accountants, brokers and others took part.

Perhaps symptomatic of the times, the five-hour meeting was so complex the participants had to rehearse their roles.

If we get much of this sort of thing, Actors' Equity soon may try organizing the business community.

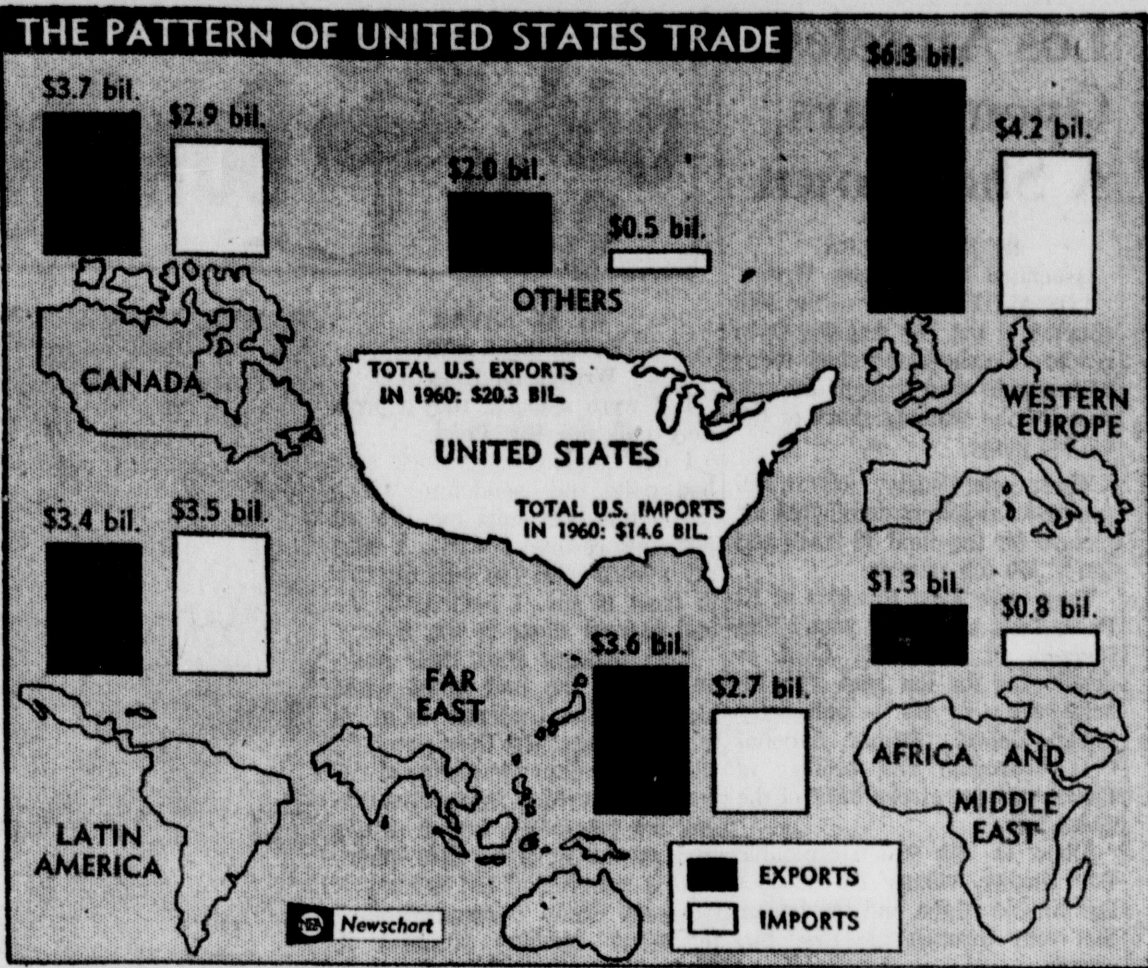

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Golden Gloves boxing in Sedalia received its greatest impetus with the completion of arrangements to use the National Guard Armory, 408 West Second street, as training quarters for youths who desire to compete in the district tournament which the Sedalia Democrat and Capital will sponsor.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Wilbur Highleyman and Jack Jolly left for Lexington, Mo., to resume their studies at Wentworth Military Academy after spending the holidays with their respective parents.

TRADE, TARIFFS AND TENSION—Congress is preparing for a tug of war as the Reciprocal Trade Program, begun in 1934, comes up for its 11th renewal. The act enables the president to make mutual tariff-lowering agreements with other countries. President Kennedy is expected to ask for broader tariff-cutting powers in order to bargain with Europe's Common Market, whose members are gradually abolishing all tariffs among themselves. Protectionists, however, fear the effect on domestic industries in the face of heavy competition from foreign imports. Newschart shows the record of U.S. foreign trade in 1960, which recorded a favorable imports vs. exports balance of nearly $6 billion.

News Teams Called Home; View Future

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The news teams of each network have been called home for their annual get-togethers on camera. Each channel has had its opportunity to look back on 1961 and ahead at 1962. Filmed golf shows are gradually pushing live football games out of the weekend TV schedule.

Gradually, after the long, long holiday season—Thanksgiving to New Year's—television is getting back to normal, and high time.

Ed Sullivan, broadcasting a merry, uninhibited show from a Hollywood night club, seemed to have some trouble with his microphones Sunday night. Even Jimmy Durante's dulcet tones seemed to come from a great distance. But everybody, including Rosemary Clooney and Jimmy, seemed in high spirits and rare form.

Walt Disney's color version of "Hans Brinker or the Silver Skates" on NBC had some delightful authentic Dutch backgrounds, but the actors, apparently Swedish, sounded like uneasy amateurs performing in English for the first time.

Gene Sarazen's new "World of Golf" kicked off on CBS, following the rigid pattern that makes all filmed golf shows exactly alike. That means descriptions and diagrams of tough holes and a shot-by-shot description of the more interesting ones in a match. Apparently golf bugs like it that way.

Casting directors can produce some interesting confusion at times—Saturday night's episode of CBS' "The Defenders," for instance. The central figure was a physician named Dr. Graham, on trial for murdering his rich, elderly patient. He was played by Sam Jaffe.

Now, every red-blooded TV fan knows that Sam Jaffe couldn't be Dr. Graham because he is already Dr. Zorba, the dedicated elderly physician of ABC's "Ben Casey." Of course, Dr. Graham turned out to be innocent. But for an hour it looked as if good, gray, dedicated Dr. Zorba was leading a double medical life.

NBC plans to do a series of weekly half-hour shows on Federal Communication Commission hearings on the state of television programming. The hearings start Jan. 23 and among the star witnesses for the defense of TV will be NBC boss, Robert Sarnoff, as well as heads of the other two major networks.

Archbishop Of Greece Dead at 73

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Theoclitos, archbishop of Athens and primate of all Greece, died today. He was 73.

The head of the Greek Orthodox Church had been in ill health since he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage almost two months ago.

Funeral services will be held in Athens Thursday.

Archbishop Theoclitos was born at Dimitsana, a small town in the central Peloponnese. He graduated from the University of Athens as a doctor of divinity.

He displayed unusual preaching ability and in 1924 was ordained as assistant bishop. He became bishop of Calavryta in 1931, bishop of Patras in 1944, and was elected archbishop of Athens in 1957.

His life was dedicated to philanthropy and to his church and was marked by exceptional administrative ability and devotion. He was noted also for his adherence to national and ecclesiastical tradition and his abstemious way of life.

His monthly income ranged between $2,000 and $2,350. He distributed a third of this to poor priests and another third went to disabled intellectuals and men of letters in need.

He is survived by two brothers, a professor at the University of Salonika and a physician.

Schoolgirl's Find May Be Treasure Of Caliph Al Moezz

CAIRO (AP)—A schoolgirl playing in a ditch found a jar containing 288 gold coins dating back 10 centuries, and archeologists speculated it may be part of the treasure of a caliph who ruled Egypt in the 10th century A.D.

The girl, Aida Mohammed, 9, said she found the gold while playing hide and seek with her 7-year-old brother.

The director of the Islamic Excavations Department, Dr. Gamal Uddin Mehrez, ordered the site guarded. He said there was a possibility the treasure of Caliph Al Moezz, who conquered Egypt 10 centuries ago, might be discovered.

Trouble Ahead

O-State, Mississippi Rule College Roost

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer—Ohio State and Mississippi State ruled the roost today as the only two undefeated major college basketball teams in the country—but there may be trouble ahead for the Bulldogs from the Southeastern Conference.

Ohio State (11-0) has only one game on tap this week, against Michigan on Saturday. Mississippi State (10-0), the defending Southeastern champions, entertains Alabama Tuesday night and that should be no problem.

But on Saturday, State runs up against Vanderbilt on the Commodores' court and that's giving Coach Babe McCarthy and his crew some uneasy moments.

Bradley, Cincy Seek Valley Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bradley and Cincinnati battle for the lead in Missouri Valley Conference basketball night at Peoria, Ill., Wednesday night.

Bradley took over the lead with a 70-63 victory over Wichita last Saturday night. It was the Braves' first conference game after winning 7 of 9 non-league games. Wichita dropped from first to third place following the loss which left the Shockers with a 2-1 league record and 11-3 for the season.

Cincinnati held second place in the conference with an easy 72-43 victory over Tulsa Saturday. It was the sixth triumph in a row for the No. 2 nationally ranked Bearcats since their loss to Wichita earlier in the season. Cincinnati now is 3-1 in the conference and 11-1 for the season.

Wichita will attempt to move back up in the league when it plays Drake at Wichita Thursday. Drake won its first conference game Saturday, 58-56 over St. Louis. The Bulldogs are 1-2 in the league and 6-4 over-all.

St. Louis (0-2) will be seeking its first conference victory when it plays host to Tulsa (0-1) Monday night.

North Texas plays host to St. Louis Thursday for its first conference game. The Eagles have won only two of their 11 non-league games.

Buffs Beat Kansas State In Big Eight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On paper, Colorado didn't have a chance against Kansas State, defending champion of the Big Eight Conference, winner of the league's pre-season tournament and the nation's fourth ranked basketball team.

But the Buffaloes trounced the Wildcats 76-61 Saturday night and now it appears that there will be a real title race in the Big Eight this season.

Kansas State had been regarded as a cinch to win the championship. The loss to Colorado was only its second of the season against 10 victories. Colorado's record is a lusterless 6-5.

In the game, played on Colorado's court, the Buffs employed a fast break to the confusion of the K-State defense. K-State rallied in the closing minutes to within six points of Colorado, but the Buffs choked off the surge and won going away.

In other Saturday night games opening the championship race, Oklahoma defeated Iowa State 63-49 at Norman, Okla.; Nebraska edged Kansas 69-67 at Lawrence, Kan., and Oklahoma State whipped Missouri 72-57 at Stillwater, Okla.

Oklahoma beat Iowa State on the backboards, grabbing 60 rebounds to 42 for the Cyclones. Superior rebounding and free throw accuracy—38 of 50—told the story of Oklahoma State's victory over Missouri.

Ivan Grupe, who had a total of 17 points, scored the clinching field goal with just four seconds remaining in Nebraska's triumph over Kansas.

This week's schedule:
Monday—Missouri at Oklahoma, Iowa State at Oklahoma State.
Wednesday—Kansas at Kansas State, Oklahoma at Nebraska.

Cincinnati (11-1) has a big one on tap Wednesday night against Bradley, its top rival for the Missouri Valley Conference title. Bradley (8-2) is rolling with seven straight victories including last Saturday's 70-63 decision over Wichita, the only team that has beaten Cincinnati. The Bearcats meanwhile steamrolled Tulsa, 72-43.

Vanderbilt warms up to its task against Mississippi State tonight when it meets Kentucky, No. 3 in the AP poll behind Ohio State and Cincinnati. Adolph Rupp's Wildcats (10-1) downed Georgia Tech Saturday, 89-70.

There were at least three other major upsets Saturday. In the biggest, Villanova, after running up a string of 13 victories without a defeat, fell before West Virginia, 88-82. Bob Thorn hit 29 points for the winners.

Kansas State (10-2), fourth-ranked in the country, and Duke (9-2), eight-rated, also toppled. Colorado, which made good on 25 of 27 free throws, took the measure of K-State, 75-62, while North Carolina State nipped the Blue Devils, 61-60, on John Pungert's last-second field goal.

Southern California (11-2), the class of the West Coast, cemented its No. 6 spot with a 79-52 victory over California. Duquesne (9-1), ranked No. 7, trounced St. Bonaventure, 73-52, while Bowling Green (10-2) No. 10, barely squeezed past Ohio University, 62-60, in a Mid-America Conference game.

Arkansas (9-2) and Texas Tech (7-2), both prime hopefuls for the Southwest Conference crown both bit the dust. Texas turned back Arkansas, 73-59, and Texas A&M dropped Texas Tech, the defending titleholder, 67-61.

Princeton, with high hopes of winning its third straight Ivy League crown, fell before Penn, 64-56, in its opening league game. Penn, which finished second to the Tigers last season, now assumes the favorite's role.

A Big Week For Jim Ellis, Johnny Tucker

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is opportunity week for Johnny Tucker of New York and Jim Ellis of Louisville, a couple of promising but virtually unknown middleweights.

They get a chance to shine because there won't be any national television fight this Saturday and none of the top fighters will be in action.

Tucker, an undefeated six-footer, meets Johnny Alford of Philadelphia in a 10-round at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight. He outpointed Alford in a six-round bout last Nov. 18.

Ellis faces veteran Rory Calhoun, onetime middleweight contender from New York, in a 10-round feature bout at Louisville's Jefferson Country Armory Thursday.

The Team to Beat

Warrensburg Mules Open Conference With Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It now appears definite that Warrensburg State will be the team to beat in the MIAA basketball race.

The Mules opened conference play Saturday night with a 105-65 romp over Rolla Mines and in the process set two school records. The 105 total was the highest in school history and the 42 points tossed in by Gordon McFarland was the most ever posted by a Warrensburg player.

There is also a possibility the Mules may have posted a field goal percentage record with 39 goals out of 67 shots for 58 per cent.

It's all amazing when it is considered Warrensburg played without Bud Vallino, its leading scorer and rebounder. Vallino was sidelined with a sore ankle.

In the other conference game Saturday, defending champion Cape Girardeau opened with a 65-52 victory over Maryville State. Springfield and Kirksville were idle last week.

Kirksville will serve as a comparative test for the two leaders this week as the Bulldogs are host to Cape Monday night and go to Warrensburg Saturday night.

William Jewell, which passed a conference challenge with a 76-68 triumph over Central Methodist last week, gets another thrown its way Tuesday night. The Cards, 2-0 in MCAU play, face old rival Missouri Valley at Marshall in the key game.

Valley opened league play by defeating Culver-Stockton 69-64. The Vikes were runner-up to Jewell in the 1961 race.

Tarkio, also 2-0 in the MCAU, figures to stay in the race this Saturday. The Owls, who registered an 85-81 decision over Westminster Saturday night, have home games coming up with Culver-Stockton Friday and Drury Saturday.

Rockhurst established itself as the top independent with a hard-earned 69-63 triumph over Lincoln of Jefferson City last week. Rockhurst and Warrensburg, 9-3, have the top records among Missouri schools.

Los Angeles Open Nears A Showdown

By BOB MYERS

Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 36th chapter of the Los Angeles Open reached the showdown stage today with a wide open struggle in prospect for the winning share of the $45,000 purse.

Three previously unheralded professional golfers dominated the picture for the final 18 holes and the $7,500 top money.

They were Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and cocky young Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif. — deadlocked for the lead with 54-hole scores of 206 — and hefty Lionel Hebert, former national PGA champion and brother of Lionel was one stroke back of the co-leaders.

Alone at 208 was formidable Bob Goalby, winner of the 1961 Los Angeles Open and the leader this year through the first two rounds.

Further back and virtually out of the winner's circle were such name players as U.S. Open champion Gene Littler (212), and the big money winners in golf last year, Arnold Palmer (214) and Gary Player (217).

Still finding the professional tournament jungle a rough place was 21-year-old Jack Nicklaus, who relinquished his national amateur crown for a crack at the play-for-money ranks.

Nicklaus, while not discouraged, made the final 18 holes with scores of 74-70-72-216. It took 218 to qualify for today's final round.

Tournament officials announced there would be a sudden death playoff in the event of a tie.

The deadlock at the top today came as no great surprise.

Goalby led by only one stroke setting forth Sunday over the sun-baked, 7,000-yard, par 36-35-71 Rancho Municipal Golf Club course.

Hawkins, Rodgers and Hebert each shot 68s while Goalby fell back with a 73.

Hawkins is 38, well seasoned. Rodgers is 23, a rookie in the pro brigade.

Two records fell. The crowd, estimated at 22,850, was the largest in the history of the tournament. The weather—86 degrees—was officially the hottest Jan. 7 in Los Angeles' annals.

Paul Dietzel Is Eager To Join Army

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer
WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Paul Dietzel is a man with a mission and he is eager to get started.

The 37-year-old Ohioan gave up the promise of continued success and security at Louisiana State University to accept the challenge of the job he always has wanted—head football coach at Army.

There is little doubt the broad-shouldered young coach is approaching this new job with zeal and confidence, touched with considerable boyish enthusiasm.

At LSU, Dietzel left a wealth of talent, a lucrative job and some bitter feelings. His $18,500-a-year contract still had four years to run and more was offered. When reports cropped up he wanted out, there was vehement criticism.

After much sound and fury, the LSU Board of Supervisors granted his release in a meeting Friday. His salary at Army presumably will be $18,500, with a 5-year contract.

In seven seasons at LSU, Dietzel's Tiger teams won 44, lost 23, tied 3 and had a 2-1 mark in bowl games. His 1958 squad was national champion with a 10-0 record and he was Coach of the Year. LSU was 9-1 in 1959 and again this past season, and his final with the Tigers was their 25-7 victory over Colorado in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day.

At Army, Dietzel succeeds Dale Hall, who was dismissed after three seasons on Dec. 9. In three tries, Hall's teams failed to beat Navy—and Navy's recent superiority has rankled Army deeply.

"We decided we wanted the best man available, and we're sure we got him," said Col. Emory Adams, the academy's athletic director. "There's a great enthusiasm here now. We're all anticipating fine things. Paul's an exceptional gentleman as well as

Odd-Ball Bowling

By AL SAVAS

Tournament Star
Written for NEA

If I were a clock, they'd probably call me Big Bend.

I don't believe any clock ever had quite the pendulum swing that I find best suits me. To get just the results I want, I take my stance with the ball directly in front of me. I bend until the ball is very close to the floor.

Most bowlers start their push-away with the ball about waist high and the tendency today is to begin operations from the right side rather than the center of the body. My position naturally shortens the pushaway, but it results in a pendulum swing that works.

As a member of the Brunswick Advisory Staff, I recommend it for some bowling students to whom it seems well fitted.

Sometimes my ball isn't more than a fraction of an inch from the floor at the bottom of the swing. My starting position, and the resultant swing, enable me to reach way over the foul line before releasing the ball. Sometimes I let go as much as two and a half feet beyond the line.

I feel that by maintaining control of the ball longer I have a better chance to get it into the proper line.

"Ball is close to the floor."

Western Auto Team Defeats Higginsville

Western Auto's independent basketball team defeated Higginsville 85-58 Sunday afternoon in Sedalia. It was Western Auto's first game in a newly-formed Tri-County league consisting of teams from Orrick, Lexington, Wellington, Waverly, Alma, Concordia, Corder, Marshall, Higginsville, in addition to Western Auto.

All of the teams will play each other once. The four top teams in the final league standings will hold a play-off.

Western Auto has won 13 and lost four in play other than the new league. The score after Sunday's game stands 1-0 for the Western Auto team.

Scoring:
Sedalia: Charlie Newman, 17; Roy Schaefer, 9; Jim Bladock, 15; Jack Kratzer, 3; Jim Fall, 26; Gary Bryan, 13.

Higginsville: D. Rinnie, 8; D. Maise, 14; E. Sahara, 7; H. Hollis, 13; E. Pearson, 8; B. Meyer, 6; B. Thomas, 24.

a brilliant coach. He can't help but be a wonderful influence."

Dietzel's first step in a highly successful career began at West Point in 1948 when he gave up plans to go to medical school and became an assistant plebe coach, shortly after he graduated from Miami of Ohio. In his second tour at the Military Academy the World War II bomber pilot was offensive line coach under Earl (Red) Blaik.

Now he's back again, the realization of a long-time ambition. Dietzel said he plans to use the same 3-plateau system at Army that he developed at LSU. "It doesn't take as much depth as you'd think. Mostly organization and work."

The pros made no mistakes in picking Kansas' John Hadl or Ohio State's All-America fullback Bob Ferguson. Hadl passed for his team's only touchdown as a group of West All-Stars played a team of East All-Stars to a 7-7 tie in Honolulu. Ferguson's spectacular 72-yard run got the East's only score.

The AFL's Western Division stars won that loop's first Pro Bowl, trouncing the Eastern Division 47-27 behind the passing of quarterback Cotton Davidson of the Dallas Cowboys, and the running of Abner Haynes, his Texan teammate.

Your Garden Survival Key In Event of Atomic Attack

An atomic attack would result in a chain reaction of survival problems as well as explosions. First there would be the problem of protection from fallout—provision of fallout shelter, then the problem of feeding and doctoring people for an emergency period—the storage of food and medical supplies.

Then would come the matter of growing food to sustain the population again as they began to rebuild. One of the first stop-gap answers to food supply would be home gardens; we would be forced back to a more self-sufficient life temporarily. To a minor degree this was illustrated by the Victory Gardens of World War II.

County Agriculture Agent Merle Vaughan says there are a number of things we can do to protect gardens from fallout.

Radioactive fallout can contaminate gardens in two ways: (1) by the radioactive dust particles falling on exposed parts of the plant; (2) by radioactive elements being absorbed by plant leaves or becoming mixed with the soil and absorbed by the plant roots.

The fact that gardens generally cover a relatively small area makes gardens easier to protect than fields for field crops.

Measures that can be taken before the fallout occurs are:

1. Make sure soil has adequate lime. Plants on high Ca soils will take up less Strontium 90 than low Ca soils. However many gardens are already over-limed so get a soil test before you add more.

2. Intensify garden plantings—in other words, grow more in less space.

3. Use a mulch over the whole garden—apply in late May. Most common materials will be straw, chopped corn cobs and sawdust. Could also use cottonseed hulls, leaf mold, or hay. As an added precaution, mulch your garden during the winter season. Then in case fallout occurs, you can remove it by removing the mulch.

4. Have a supply of large (9 x 12 ft.) plastic covers available.
5. Have at least a season's supply of garden seeds on hand. Place seeds in can or jar with tightly fitting lid to keep radioactive dust off of them.

Steps to take prior to fallout if you have a few hours warning (a likely event in regions away from target points).

1. Harvest vegetables that can be stored in your refrigerator or basement.

2. Place plastic covers over rows of your most valuable vegetables to prevent fallout from contaminating the plants. Seal the edges of plastic with boards or soil.

3. Apply a mulch to areas not protected by plastic if garden has not already been mulched.

4. Remain in your fallout shelter until advised by authorities it is safe to go out.

Steps to take after fallout.

1. Remove plastic covers from protected vegetables. Vegetables properly protected with plastic or tarpaulins will be safe to consume after thorough washing.

2. Unprotected vegetables and fruits harvested from fallout zones in the first month after fallout may be saved but will require decontamination before they can be used for food. Vaughan can furnish details on this process.

3. If you have a mulch over the garden you can scoop up the mulch with a scoop shovel. If a mulch was not used, you could scoop up the top inch or two of soil and remove most of the radioactive material.

4. Proper disposal of contaminated plastic covers, mulch or soil is important. Perhaps the best method of disposal is to bury these materials away from the house.

5. The following vegetables are considered very low in their uptake of Strontium 90. These would be the safest ones to plant: sweet corn, cucumbers, tomatoes, peppers, potatoes, eggplant, summer squash, asparagus, pumpkins, beets (roots), cauliflower, peas, head lettuce and winter squash.

Other elections will remain as originally announced. These include Houstonia on Monday night, Jan. 15; Blackwater, Dresden, Green Ridge, LaMonte, Hughesville and Prairie, all on Monday night, Jan. 22; and Bowling Green, Cedar, Elk Fork, Flat Creek, Heath Creek, Longwood, Sedalia and Washington on Tuesday night, Jan. 23. First Lesson — Home Remodeling Home remodeling will be the topic of the first lesson of the Young Farm Couples schools to be held Wednesday night, Jan. 10, at Smithton and Thursday night, Jan. 11 at Hughesville.

Slides will be used to present part of the program. These slides will show steps in remodeling, a good floor plan, the before plan of one to be remodeled and three ways that it could be remodeled.

Some points to be emphasized will be the importance of drawing a remodeling plan to scale and the steps in taking measurements. These meetings start at 8 p.m., are over by 9:30 p.m. and refreshments will be served at the end.

Further information may be obtained at the extension office or from the committees at the two meeting places. The Hughesville committee includes Jack Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Joe Runge and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Leicher. Those at Smithton include John Wagenknecht, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Curtiss and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith.

Conservation is the Key

"Conservation is the Key" will be the theme of the 38th Annual Soils and Crops Conference to be held in Sedalia on Saturday, Jan. 20. Bill Murphy, extension field crops specialist from the University, will be the speaker.

After a year of the heaviest rainfall in history, conservation will refer most specifically to soil conservation. One of the speakers on the program will be Forest Dohrman of Sweet Springs who has completely terraced his farm in the last ten years.

Related to that will be a report from the County A.S.C.S. committee listing their efforts to encourage the use of more A.S.C.S. funds for permanent practices such as terraces and terrace outlets.

Other conservation practices will include emphasis on seeding grass and clovers. Frank Hughes of Windsor will report on the growing of Southland Brome and Ralph Chaney of Green Ridge will discuss the use of a wind-rower or swather in harvesting red clover seed.

Another angle of conservation is the use of insecticides to control insects. Raymond Wicker, Don Arnett and Forest Dohrman will report on the use of soil insecticides while Chester Morgan be even better investments for these purposes.

Many farmers may find it profitable to buy more land if it permits greater use of available labor and machinery.

and Gale Van Slyke of Windsor will tell of experiences with spraying for corn borer and also the use of herbicides for control of weeds in their corn.

Leroy Ryan is chairman of this year's program.

Be Their Guests
In about ten counties this year the extension soil specialists are offering a program for customers of fertilizer companies. The effort is "beamed" toward encouraging farmers to be better able to interpret their soil tests.

These meetings are actually similar to recent ones which had been held for the fertilizer dealers themselves. Pettis County will have two sessions, one on Tuesday, Jan. 30 and one on Tuesday, Feb. 6.

Each fertilizer dealer is being encouraged to bring several of his customers who are interested in knowing more about soil test interpretation. The meetings will start about 10 a.m., customers will be guests of their own fertilizer dealer for the noon lunch, and the sessions will be over about 3 p.m. Both sessions will be at the Pacific Cafe.

If you are interested in attending these sessions, please pass that information on to your dealer. He would be glad to know it.

When Prospective Freshmen Should Apply To The University Of Missouri for Entrance

I have just received a copy of the little folder from our Dean of Extension Dr. C. B. Ratchford. It is entitled "Policies and Procedures for the Freshman Class."

In this folder they say that high school youngsters in the upper third of their high school class are urged to apply before Feb. 1 of their senior year in high school. Of course that date is not very far away.

Applicants in the middle third of their high school class, if residents of the state, and in the upper half if non-residents, may apply for admission at the end of seven semesters or at the end of 3½ years of high school work and are urged to apply before April 1 of their senior year in high school.

Occupants in the lower third may apply after the end of seven semesters and should apply before May 1. This deadline is important because these applicants will be required to take placement tests before admission and perhaps additional tests as well.

Further information may be obtained by writing Director of Admissions and Registrar, 130 Jesse Hall, Columbia, Mo. Additional information may be obtained, too, by contacting Owen Fox in the County Extension Office.

Certified Alfalfa
We have just received our initial supply of the new alfalfa bulletin. Its title is "Five Steps to Five Tons with Certified Alfalfa."

Those five steps listed are: (1) Plant certified seed of recommended varieties, (2) Meet soil requirements, (3) Get a good start, (4) Carefully manage established stands, and (5) Harvest and store to preserve quality.

A supply of this bulletin will be available at our soils and crops conference or it can be obtained by writing or calling at the Extension office.

Missouri Pig Crop Report

The Dec. 1 pig crop report is just in and we do see some fluctuations between Missouri and United States figures.

Missouri farrowed more pigs from June through August but less through September through November and the figure for June through November shows the same number of hogs as 1960. The United States figure is 102 per cent of 1960.

Apparently there will be slightly more pigs than that because of more pigs saved. The average pigs per litter saved for 1961 was 7.15 as compared for 7.02 in 1960. Sows to farrow in the spring of 1962 show 104 per cent of 1961 for Missouri and 103 per cent of 1961 for the U. S. total.

Poison Control Centers
We have just received the little folder No. 107 with the above title. Missouri poison control centers are listed at Cape Girardeau, Kansas City, St. Louis and Springfield.

The poison control centers will provide to the medical profession on a 24-hour daily basis, current and accurate information concerning the prevention, treatment and course of action to be taken if local physician should be unavailable or unacquainted with antidotes for accidents involving

MUCH OF THE MISSOURI corn crop has not been picked. Wet weather has kept the fields too muddy for harvesting equipment. Here is Billy Jim Marshall, Route 2, Nelson. His field is entered in the State-wide corn growing contest sponsored by the Missouri Farmers Association. Despite Hurricane Carla and heavy snow this field is still standing in good condition. There is a minimum of stalk damage and all of the corn can be saved whenever he can get into the field with a picker.

HARVEST CORN BY HAND—Missouri's muddy corn fields have thrown mechanized equipment for a loss. Many farmers in the Marshall area are picking corn by hand to feed their livestock. Here Vernon Dempsey loads a wagon to feed the hard way but finds the corn is in good condition.

For 375 Cows

Records Show Production Of Herds in Dairy Group

The first month's records of the Pettis County Dairy Herd Improvement Association have just been received at the extension office. This record is for 375 cows in seven herds. Three additional herds will be included in January.

Production for the 375 cows amounted to 306,873 pounds of milk and 10,926 pounds of butterfat. Averages per cow were 818 pounds of milk and 29 pounds of butterfat for the month of December.

The Robert Longan herd had the ingestion of specified pesticides or other poisonous and potentially poisonous materials.

Larger Alfalfa Acreage Needed
Practices necessary for successful stands and maintenance of high yielding alfalfa will be discussed at the 1962 Pettis County Soils and Crops Conference to be held at Sedalia on Jan. 20. Alfalfa has become a highly important crop on many county farms and nearly 4000 acres of new seedings were made last fall.

How To Meet Your Needs For Pasture and Roughage
Livestock producers are interested in good quality and high yields of pastures and roughage as near the year around as possible.

This involves establishment of permanent type grass-legume mixtures as well as maintenance of stands already established.

Those attending the 38th Annual Soils and Crops Conference at Sedalia Jan. 20 will have a chance to discuss this and other problems with William J. Murphy, extension specialist in field crops of the Missouri College of Agriculture, and with their neighbors who will tell of their experiences in meeting their needs for pasture and roughage.

One Type Is Popular

Self-feeders for Cattle Being Used More in Area

The interest in and the use of self-feeders for fattening cattle are growing rather rapidly.

A type of feeder that is quite popular in central Missouri, especially in Cooper, Saline, and Howard Counties, is one 16 feet long, 10 feet wide at the top and six feet at the bottom, that will hold around 400 bushels of ground corn and supplement. Such a feeder will accommodate around 75 head of fattening yearlings. The cattle tend to eat in shifts of seven or eight at a time, with no crowding.

Cattle should be hand-fed for at least two weeks, gradually working them up to a full feed before they are put on the self-feeder. If the feeder is never allowed to become empty, there should be a minimum amount of founder, if any.

Ground ear corn with the proper amount of protein supplement added when the feeder is filled is safer than shelled corn or ground shelled corn, since the ground cobs provide bulk and tend to prevent digestive upsets.

Some producers get good results by adding some ground hay to the ration when ear corn is not readily available.

The feeder should be checked regularly to be sure it is feeding down. Care should be taken after a rain to see that there is no moldy feed where some water may have blown in. Cattle tend to waste some feed unless the outside edge of the feed trough has a bevel on it.

A concrete or wooden platform should be provided for the cattle to stand on when eating.

The self-feeder should be particularly useful to a one-man operator who wishes to feed during the season when he is busy putting in a crop. In many instances the feeder can be filled on a day when he cannot get into the field, so that he can spend full time in the field when the ground is dry. It is also very useful for the cattle-feeder who has a grass farm and buys most of his grain.

Many feed dealers will fill the self-feeder with the ground corn and protein mixture for about the same as they would charge for the whole corn delivered to the crib.

Plans for a self-feeder may be obtained from the county extension office.

Space Expert Tells Why US Must Win Race to the Moon

Last May President Kennedy proposed that the U. S. should spend $20 billion to send a man to the moon and back by 1970. But the average American is still unconvinced that we will ever reach this goal — or that it's necessary and space expert Hugo Gernsback spells out the reasons in fascinating, easy to understand terms. Don't miss it, appearing with your Democrat-Capitol Sunday Jan. 14.

Sharing the same house can be a strain on any friendship except, perhaps, when the friends are Bob Hope and Bing Crosby. Two cronies decided that two families can live as cheaply as one in the Family Weekly feature, "Hope and Crosby Invade an English Country House."

In the same issue of Family Weekly, world champion Don Carter explains "How to Help Your Children Bowl Better." Carter gives some sound advice for adult bowlers as well as the youngsters.

Regular Family Weekly feature include a selection of easy-to-prepare recipes for a teen party, riddles and games for the children in the Junior Treasure Chest, and humor for everyone in Quips and Quotes.

The Safety Council is made up of representatives of many organizations and firms throughout the state.

Grain Blowers Useful in Farm Feeding System

Grain blowers are widely used in large grain storage and processing plants. Some farmers have recently been using them in farm feeding systems. The power requirements are higher than mechanical conveying but grain blowers are flexible and would fit well into many farm grain handling systems.

A 16-inch to 19-inch blower is used. Feed can be fed into the blower either at the intake or discharge. Normally the feed is ground before it is placed in the blower. Grain fed into the intake at the center of the blower is subjected to impact of the blower blades and results in some damage to whole grain. Grain fed in discharge side of the blower would not be subjected to this damage. This damage would not be a factor in a feed system except that a slightly coarser grind may be desirable in order to compensate for this damage.

Pipe is normally four inches to six inches and is made of sheet steel and is readily available. Length of pipe may be up to 300 feet. The pipe is light and can be suspended overhead and out of the way.

Dust collectors are needed at the discharge end. When the dust collector is inside a building it is desirable to vent the top of the dust collector to the outside of the building.

An air velocity of 4,000 feet per minute is necessary for satisfactory operation. The supplier of an acceptable blower can specify the fan speed that will give the required velocity in a particular system.

Thomas Speck Takes Part In Exercise

Specialist Five Thomas C. Speck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Speck, 1714 South Prospect, Sedalia, recently participated in an annual Army training test with other personnel from the 8th Infantry Division's 8th Aviation Company in Germany. Designed to determine the unit's combat readiness and improve its operating efficiency, the test included a series of simulated combat exercises which stressed various aspects of training received during the past year.

Specialist Speck, assigned to the company in Bad Kreuznach, entered the Army in 1954, was last stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., and arrived overseas on this tour of duty in June 1961.

Educational Mailbag Is Brimming Over Again

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.

One habit of Benjamin Franklin scandalized his neighbors—he took three baths a week. Even doctors of that day thought such a practice was dangerous to health.

Here's an odd sidelight on bathing today: more than twice as many people drown in bathtubs as in swimming pools.

What is America's biggest industry? Expert John Scarnie insists it's gambling. He estimates we bet $50 billion a year—most of it illegally.

How they got started: Actor Henry Fonda once worked as a telephone company trouble shooter. Comedian Shelley Berman drove a taxicab. David Sarnoff, the communications tycoon, was a pioneer radio operator.

Does your wife sew? If not, she's out of step with the times. Home sewing is becoming increasingly popular, particularly among younger women. Some 70 per cent of U.S. women own sewing machines.

Candy can be medicine. The Boston Children's Hospital has found an old-fashioned lollipop is often the best tranquilizer to calm young patients. In 1960 it gave away 93,500 lollipops, an average of five to a child.

Our quotable notables: "The most effective water power in the world — women's tears." — Wilson Mizner.

Safety statistic: It is startling enough that in one out of five traffic accidents a chronically reckless motorist is involved. But even more startling: four out of five accidents involve drivers or dinarily conscientious!

Did you know your fingernails grow four times as fast as your toenails—about an eighth of an inch a month?

Don't fret if it sometimes takes you longer to do a job than the other fellow. Leonardo da Vinci spent four years painting "The Last Supper"—but his masterpiece has endured 4½ centuries.

More white collar jobs: Despite the increased use of automation in business offices, clerical employment rose from eight million
